Professional Summary: I create back-of-the-book indexes that reflect the values and style of the text as well as the voice of the author. I promote the profession of indexing and necessity of indexes through the integrity of my work and my professional interactions.

Indexing: I have been creating indexes since 2010 and pride myself on the following:

- Subject knowledge understanding of Cultural Anthropology including Spanish fluency.
- Additional subject knowledge in agriculture, gardening, and outdoor life; education, parenting, and child development; children's non-fiction; textbooks; and biographies.
- Projects always completed on time.
- Ability to work under pressure - including rush jobs.
- Professional and timely communication.
- Flexibility, versatility, and a passion for learning new things.
- I also work with dedicated indexing software and can generate an index in a variety of formats as well as handle any structural changes that may arise.

Selected Clients:

- Business Publications Corporation, Inc. The Real Deal: The Life of Bill Knapp – 215 page biography, indexed and delivered in two weeks and on time.
- Abingdon Press How Israel Became a People – 288 page scholarly book, indexed and delivered in one week and on time.
- S4Carlisle Fiscal Administration – 677 page textbook, indexed and delivered in one week and on time.

Education and Professional Development:

- 2012 - Indexing Boot Camp with Enid Zafran where I honed my indexing skills through the completion of intensive one-on-one indexing boot camp.
- 2009 - Indexing: Theory and Application through the University of California Berkeley where I obtained skills needed to develop back-of-the-book indexes.
- 2002 - BA Anthropology and International Studies through Iowa State University with a focus on Cultural Anthropology and Latin American studies which provided the subject knowledge to create usable indexes for that field.
